About travel

Go to Star Author travel agency invites you to Argentina.

Argentina, the land of fiery rhythms and close touch, the land of love for juicy steaks and thick red wines, the region of raging colors jungle and art, a civilization with a rich cultural heritage, and a wonderland of unspoiled wilderness. And also the home of world-famous soccer players, Comandante Che Guevara and the legendary Evita Perón.

Here you will find the Andes, the mysterious Patagonia, the mesmerizing Perito Moreno, the restless Buenos Aires, the powerful currents of the Iguazu Falls, and the passionate inhabitants.

The Spanish conquistadors longed to find deposits of precious metal in the land - the word argentum, Latin for "silver", gave the country its name. But they discovered something far more valuable. We already have a map of these treasures and all we have to do is go and look at them.

Argentina

Buenos Aires

The Windy City of the Good Winds has the architectural fingerprints of different centuries. Here austere academism coexists with Art Deco. Art Deco monuments, Art Nouveau buildings, neo-Gothic and modern glass and concrete high-rises.

The alleyways of the port districts remember the birth of the tango, and the multicolored walls of houses painted in contrasting colors have become a collective symbol of Argentine color.

Argentina

Gáúcho

Courageous inhabitants of the boundless steppes - the pampas. Since ancient times they have ridden wild horses and tamed buffalo, mastered lasso, herded herds and managed subsistence farming. The Gauchos were born of Spanish marriages to Indian women and lived a free life away from the cities. They laid the foundation of Argentina's national culture and inspired many writers with images of hardy heroes with a wild temper and a good heart. Today the gaucho legacy lives on in song and dance.

Argentina

Argentina

Argentine beef

The main national dish of the country, literally elevated to a cult, and it is not surprising. We look back at the history of the gaucho and realize how strong the centuries-old tradition of "working with meat" is. Modern Argentina is a gastronomic paradise, where every night the air is filled with the aroma of grilled steaks, and we are already rushing to try them.

Argentina

Tango

The dance, often referred to as making lovemaking while standing, was born in the nineteenth century in the port areas of Buenos Aires. At that time, it was performed exclusively by men, as a sign of competition in competition for the lady. Like a mosaic, it is assembled from colorful pieces of musical cultures, that immigrants have brought with them from all over the world: Cuban, African, South American and even traditional European.

Argentina

Recoleta

One of the most beautiful and famous cemeteries in the world looks more like a city. The majestic crypts, decorated with elaborate carvings, form shady streets - as far as the eye can see. One can wander around Recoleta for hours looking at the sculptures and statues, frescoes and mosaics.

More than one mystical story is associated with the burial here of Evita Perón, Argentina's most famous woman. You are sure to discover them when you visit the ancient city of the dead.

Malbec

Argentina is one of the five largest wine producers in the world. It has been elevated to the pinnacle of winegrowing fame is Malbec. A dark grape that has been undeservedly forgotten undeservedly forgotten in France, but it has taken off here. It is now the local flagship grape. Wine and the benchmark of taste - smooth and silky, with a pleasant density, juicy, fruity aromas and a blackberry-plum undertone.

Argentina

Modern Latino American art

What goes through your mind when you hear that phrase? The colorful paintings of Frida or street murals in Mexico? The magical realism of Márquez or the mysterious precepts Castaneda?

In the twentieth century, Latin America was big intellectual fashion trend. In the culture was always alluring and unaccustomed to the Old World - so artists were influenced by the particular natural and social environment. Let's go to experience it for ourselves at the Malba Museum.
