About the trip

Author's travel agency Go to Star invites you to Budapest.

The name Budapest is a real riddle, where from three Hungarian cities, Buda, Pest, and Obud, have become one, three different atmospheres and, at the same time, three different cities. The memory of this merger is the Chain Bridge, which is featured in all the tourist photo films. In Budapest is full of surprises, enough for several full journeys. The most important one is the gastronomic one, because Hungarians can create even a simple goulash, the pride of the Michelin restaurants.! Budapest loves riddles, and Ernő Rubik created one for the world. The Rubik's Cube. And this mystery line was continued by the world's foremost illusionist of the world, Harry Houdini, who was born in Budapest.

It is the hottest city in the world, not only because of 70 million liters of thermal water that flows right underneath the city, but also because of the music! Every August. the European's sedate lifestyle is transformed into a fun and sleepless one because of the music festival "Sziget, which attracts hundreds of thousands of music lovers from all over the world and lasts a whole week.

And many more "most" fit into this pompous, full of art, European spirit, and delicious gastronomy. Remember the picture from the movie "Grand Budapest? This is exactly how colorful, amazing, and touching we will see this city!

Budapest

Pannonhalm

On the threshold of the library at Pannonhalm Abbey we are greeted by a statue of a student writing something in a notebook. You go inside, and there, too, are still students from the church gymnasium, even after almost 300 years of the place's existence. Aside from the obvious the value of over 360,000 volumes of ancient books, there's an incredible atmosphere here: the gold spines, massive wooden cabinets, and antique globe. Everything can be photographed and touch everything, but the books are hidden behind a barely visible metal netting for safekeeping. A bonus to the experience will be photos as if from the Hogwarts library.

Tokay Asu

Tokay Asu-"wine for kings and a king among wines, which delighted Beethoven, inspired Peter the Great and so prized by Hungarians that they dedicated a line to this wine region a line in their anthem. Catherine the Great sent an entire Cossack detachment to ensure the careful delivery of the drink to her sumptuous table. For its production, grapes affected by botrytis, a noble mold that dries out the berries, increasing their sugar content and giving it that ineffable sweet taste.

And at the Oremus winery on our itinerary, you can open the heavy barn lock, breathe in the smell of the wine cellar, and taste the famous Tokay Asu straight from the barrel! Oremus is the most iconic winery that belongs to a family of winemakers from Spain (Vega Sicily).

Budapest

Gellert Thermal Bath

The baths were once used for luxurious balls, which is why Gellert the proud title of the most beautiful in Budapest. Marble columns, stained-glass windows, the bronze statues, the fountains - it is not a typical ambience the atmosphere is not conducive to a typical bathing rest. Jacuzzis with waves were already here in the 1920s. It is also the only thermae that offers nighttime visits in the pool on the terrace with an amazing view of the city. Feel like a hero of an arthouse and very beautiful movie!

Essencia

This restaurant is a true love story of two people and two countries. The alliance of Portuguese Chef Tiago Sabarigo and his Hungarian wife Eva served to create a unique concept of uniting gastronomic Portuguese and Hungarian gastronomic traditions into one whole. Michelin appreciated this combination, by giving the restaurant one of its coveted stars. If you choose a table closer to the kitchen you can admire the diligent work of the chefs in the open kitchen.

Budapest

Jewish block

A small area of Budapest filled with synagogues, unique monuments, and this city's trademark ruin bars. Many of the buildings were critically damaged during World War II, and while the authorities were wondering what to do with them, young people took matters into their own hands organized spontaneous bars among the ruins.

The Jewish Quarter is one of the most beautiful of street art in the world. Many of the houses here are decorated with murals, huge images on the facades of buildings. A place that cherishes a tragic memory but lives on through the inspiration... of a new generation.

Hungary is famous for its excellent meat and the peak of the flavor is the goose peak of the culinary experience is the goose liver or foie gras, which called libamai.
